Virtual Travel Awards Type

Virtual Travel Awards

be provided to cover food and refreshments. The highest scoring applicants will be awarded Don Henderson Travel Awards of $250 each (ARO anticipates making several such awards per trainee category: graduate student, medical student / resident, postdoc, audiologist).

The ARO is committed to inclusiveness, as such individuals with a disability (e.g. loss of hearing, vision, or mobility, as well as individuals with a psychiatric or learning disability) and individuals from groups historically under-represented in the biomedical sciences (e.g. African American, Hispanic, Native American, Alaskan native, or Pacific Islander) are highly encouraged to apply.

Eligibility criteria:

- Applicants must be a current ARO member at the time of application and of the MidWinter Meeting.
- Applicants must perform research pertinent to the interests of ARO and be either full-time: A) graduate students, B) medical students / residents in Otolaryngology, C) postdocs or D) graduate students / postdocs in audiology.
- Please note: recipients of a 2021 virtual travel award will still be eligible for travel awards in 2022.

All travel award applicants must be a current ARO member at the time of application and at the time of the 2021 Virtual MidWinter Meeting.
